
Rabid skunk, fox found, county says

From Press staff report

The Atlantic County Division of Public Health announced two confirmed cases of rabies Friday, but reported no human contact with either of the infected animals.

Balance of Nature, Inc. of Tuckerton NJ was hired to collect the cases, a fox collected Nov. 8 from the Atlantic City Country Club on Shore Road in Northfield and a skunk collected on Nov. 12 from a residential property on South Frankfort Avenue in Galloway Township, bring the total cases of rabies in Atlantic County this year to six County Health Officer Patricia Diamond said.

